Domain 1: Planning

The Scoring Continuum

Level	What It Looks Like
Improvement Needed	Plans incomplete, lack alignment, no differentiation
Developing	Aligned to standards but generic; limited differentiation
Proficient	Standards-aligned, clear objectives, addresses diverse learners
Accomplished	Deep understanding of standards, data-driven, strong differentiation
Distinguished	Student-centered, data-driven, cross-curricular, responsive to individual needs

🌟 Distinguished Indicators — What Sets You Apart

- ☐ Data-driven design: Specific student data informed THIS lesson
- ☐ Individualized adjustments: Specific accommodations by name/group
- ☐ Cross-curricular connections: Intentional connections to other subjects
- ☐ Student voice in planning: Students had input on activities, topics, or pace
- ☐ Vertical alignment: Reference what students learned before and where they're headed

- ☐ Anticipation of misconceptions: Common errors documented with solutions
- ☐ Multiple assessment types: Formative, summative, and self-assessment
- ☐ Real-world relevance: Clear connection to students' lives

Pro Tips for Domain 1

1. Annotate your lesson plans — add margin notes showing WHY you made each choice
2. Reference data explicitly — "Based on Unit 3 results showing 60% struggled with fractions..."
3. Include student names (personal copy) — shows individualization
4. Show your planning process — save drafts showing how plans evolved based on data

Domain 2: Instruction (Sample)

Distinguished Indicators

- ☐ Students lead learning — explain concepts to each other, ask higher-order questions
- ☐ Seamless differentiation — adjust complexity without stopping flow
- ☐ Real-time data use — check understanding and modify on the spot
- ☐ Higher-order thinking is the norm — analyze, evaluate, create
- ☐ All students challenged — GT extensions and struggling student scaffolds simultaneously
